SC GUIDELINES

Management professionals to be appointed as court masters

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
New Delhi, August 2

THE SUPREME COURT on Thursday issued a slew of guidelines, including appointing management professionals as court masters, for effective administration of judicial works and improvement of infrastructure in courts across the country.

The apex court said that a sound infrastructure is the backbone of a strong and stable judicial system and directed a number of measures, including professionally qualified court managers, electronic case display, CCTV cameras at proper locations within the court complex, video conference equipments, electricity, sufficient parking space, connectivity to jails and dispensary etc.

A bench comprising Chief Justice Dipak Mishra and justices A M Khanwilkar and J Y Chandrachud said that court masters, preferably with an MBA degree, be appointed in judicial districts to assist in court administration.

The apex court directed chief secretaries of all the states to constitute a committee, which will include a member of secretary of the department of law and an officer from the High Court of the respective state, to formulate development plan. The bench sought a status report in this regard while listing the matter for further hearing on August 23.

"It needs to be understood that without a robust infrastructure, the judiciary would not be able to function at its optimum level and, in turn, would fail to deliver the desired results," the court said, adding that a court complex is not just a building. It is the building of justice which breathes and infuses life into the outdated and sublime ideals of justice.

It said that raising the infrastructure standards in court complexes is the need of the hour as it is the basic requirement for the courts in the 21st century and that the idea of speedy and quality justice dispensation system cannot be treated with status quoist approach.

The court asked all the states to ensure basic amenities including adequate seating space for litigant public and lawyers, electricity, air-conditioning, clean drinking water, washrooms separately for men, women, transgenders and physically handicapped persons and centers at nominal rates in all the courts across the country. It directed the authorities to ensure that all the court complexes are conducive and friendly for the differently-abled.

It said it was necessary to establish a working and fully operational help desk at major points in all court premises.

Bill to give constitutional status to NCBC passed

A CRUCIAL BILL to provide constitutional status to the National Commission for Backward Classes was passed unanimously by the Lok Sabha on Thursday with over two-third majority. The House passed the Constitution (123rd Amendment) Bill 2017, superseding the amendments by the Rajya Sabha, with all 406 present voting in favour. — PTI
